AN INTRODUCTION TO TRACKS AND SIGNS

The naturalist's forgotten skill

Monday 20th January 2025 at 7.30pm
In the Recital Room at South Hill Park

The ability to accurately identify and interpret tracks and signs relies on a body of traditional knowledge that previous generations of naturalists would have regarded as fundamental.

Fox's print

Sadly, this skill is now largely unknown and untaught, but with the upsurge of citizen science it is perhaps more relevant than ever. Expert Bob Cowley from the Oxfordshire Mammal Group will give us some excellent guidelines!
